

POLYVINYL CHEMICALS TO LOCATE IN WILMINGTON

Polyvinyl Chemicals Incorporated, of Peabody has decided to build a plant in Wilmington, according to a statement made Tuesday evening by its president, Max Potash of Swampscott.

The ten year old firm has made arrangements to purchase 31 acres of land from General Dynamics, on Main Street, near the Town Farm bridge.

Construction is to start as soon as possible on a 50,000 square foot building (about half the size of Sweetheart Plastics).

5000 square feet of the new building will be used for office area, a second 5000 feet will be used as a laboratory, about 10,000 square feet will be used for processing, and about 30,000 square feet will be used for storage.

The plant will probably cost about $500,000, according to one estimate, although the architects have not yet completed their plans.

Polyvinyl Chemicals Incorporated is more readily identified by its initials, PCL.

It is a company which has been in business for the past 10 years in Peabody, operating entirely in leased buildings.

The construction of the firms own buildings will be of a considerable benefit to the company according to President Potash, as, for the first time, they will not have to cope with architectural problems which have been inherited.

The firm employs about 100

POLLS OPEN THURSDAY FROM 10 AM TO 8 PM

The polls will be open Thursday from 10 am to 8 pm, for the voters of Wilmington.

An interesting race for a new seat in the State House of Representatives has created more interest in this election than in any in recent years.

Two Wilmington residents are among those who seek the nomination for the new 34th Middlesex District - Selectman Charles H. Black, a veteran of nearly 40 years in Wilmington political life, and Fred F Cain, the president of the auto mobile company that bears his name.

Both Black and Cain are making a determined drive for so-called 'Independent' voters. It is to be believed that over 3000 voters will cast their ballots, out of the slightly more than 6000 in town.

The Town Clerk, Mrs Esther Russell, at the request of the two local candidates, will have, at the polls, a box in which may be placed slips of paper, properly signed, requesting that voters again be classed as 'Independent' after having voted with either Democratic or Republican ballots.

The voting will be in the High School gymnasium.

In Burlington, in the 34th Middlesex District, the voting will begin at 7 am, and in Woburn, two wards of which are in the 34th District (Wards 6 and 7) the voting is to begin at 8 am.

In all three places the voting ends at 8 pm.

SPECULATIONS ABOUT TAXES

The case now pending in Middlesex Superior Court against the Assessors and other officers of Wilmington can raise some interesting speculations.

What happens, for instance, if the parties who have appealed to the courts win?

The tax rate has already been set at $38. This is based, partly, on a land valuation of $10,310,525, which was increased from the sum of $6,279,150 of a year ago.

Not all of this is due to the increase in Industrial and Commercial zones, but a goodly percentage of it is.

The difference is $4,031,000. Call it $4 million just to have easy figures.

If the town loses the case, then the $4 million extra values in land will just have to be 'thrown out the window'.

The town could borrow money, but it will not have to. It can change the tax rate - just so long as no bills have been sent out. None will be sent out until the case is settled, according to the observations made by the court last week.

With the $4 million loss in extra values the town would be short about $152,000 of the sum needed for the year.

It would be necessary to increase the tax rate, and as a guess one could use the figure of $3, everything included. Some of the home owners would wail and gnash their teeth at this news, in their turn.

Such an action (i.e. wailing and gnashing) would really be short sighted, for the principal would then have been set that the firms who hope to grow with Wilmington could set aside lands, in a 'land bank'. Wilmington would be able to look forward to an increasing industrial tax base, and nothing could be sweeter to the ear of the average home owner than this kind of music.

For it is an increasing tax base based on growth, and not the promises of short sighted politicians which will ultimately keep the tax rate of Wilmington at a figure which will be low enough to keep every one happy.

Any resident who might gloat over the fact that industrial properties have been 'hit' would be very short sighted.

There is another intriguing figure. That is the

Be careful where you buy--there are no insurance bargains!

Bedell Brothers Insurance Agency, Inc.
402 Main St. OLiver 8-9116 Wilmington, Mass.

sudden growth of Personal Property valuations in the figures supplied by the Assessors of Wilmington.

Personal Properties are items owned by business men and corporations which could be termed their stock in trade. It does not include machinery owned or leased by corporations.

Mike Weinberg's shirts, the hospital beds of the MacBic company down on Woburn Street, and the supplies of chemicals owned by National Polychemicals come under the heading of 'Personal Properties' and are taxed as such.

In 1963 there were $1,699,775 in Personal Properties, according to the Board of Assessors.

In 1964 this figure had jumped to $2,493,425, an increase of $794,000 - or nearly 50%.

This is more than a sizeable jump.

Personal Property, last year, and for a few years previously, was assessed at 100%. In other words a change in assessing values is not the cause for this year's jump.

And all of this means that some of Wilmington's firms are going to have a large jump in their taxes, under the heading of Personal Property.

Perhaps they do not realize now, but they will!

GERRY'S IDEAS

Informally one might say that Town Manager Gerald Bouchard did not agree with the analysis made in this column, last week, entitled 'Knocking out the Cornerstone'.

Mr Bouchard does not seem to think that it is a good idea to recognize that unused industrially zoned land is a sort of 'land bank'.

He has expressed himself of the opinion that if land has to be set aside for future use, instead of making it 'industrial' it would be better to make it 'rural' with the 60,000 square foot lots that Wilmington has for that type of zone.

It must be recognized that there is some merit to this. It was originally suggested by Lloyd Bender at a Selectmen's meeting, last April. No one paid any attention to Mr Bender's suggestion at the time.

Simply stated the question is: Would the zoning of land into 'rural' preserve it for future industrial expansion?

At the very best the answer is only Maybe.

At the moment the 60,000 square foot lots in the rural zones are not attractive to land speculators. In only one place in Wilmington have homes been built on land that was so zoned, as a speculation, and that is Wilton Drive.

But the day is not too far distant when land hunger will cause the real estate speculators to consider this size as being possibly suitable. In any event there would always be a constant pressure on the town to reduce the lot size to one that would be more amenable for real estate purposes.

At either a 60,000 square foot size or a smaller one, it would be the best lands that would go first - the very lands that Professor Bill Goodwin wanted to save for future industry.

And the swamps and ledges of Wilmington would be left for future industry,

The net result would be, in the long run, an increase in the taxes paid by the home owners. In other words life would become more expensive.

TOWN NOTES

It's Aster Time

After a cool August comes a hot September.

Comes also the little delicate wild aster, forbear of the many cultivated varieties.

It is to be seen in the fields now, with its brave blossom facing the afternoon sun. Once seen it is never forgotten.

Seven Articles

No one knows, no will they presumably know until next Monday when the Selectmen meet, just what are in the seven articles which have been presented for the warrant of the Special Town Meeting.

The Selectmen's Clerk has the seven articles all locked up until the Selectmen inspect the offerings of the citizens.

It is said that one of the articles seeks to rezone the land near Lowell Street, on Woburn Street, which is owned by Harold Smith, and on which he seeks to have Garden Type Apartments.

It is also said that a second article calls for a re-zoning of land at the end of Kilmarnock Road, presumably into industrial.

A third rumor, still more vague, says that someone is trying to rezone nearly five acres of land in North Wilmington for a research laboratory.

We aren't certain, but it might be off Andover Street, in what is now a rural zone.

But four or more of the articles are, at the present time, a complete mystery.

Biggest Fish

George Henry Bradley is a nine year old who spent his weekends in Hubbardston this summer, at a family recreation club with his dad and mom, Mr and Mrs Henry Bradley of North Street.

George went fishing frequently - almost every afternoon. He would take his casting rod, and go down to the edge of a pond, as it was called, which was only about six times bigger than Silver Lake.

George, let it be related, caught the biggest fish out of that pond, in the past summer - an 18 1/2 inch pickerel. He took it home and it is still in the family freezer.

But, best of all, was the prize that George was awarded for catching that fish.

No common ordinary gilt colored cup, to tarnish on the mantle piece - no sir!

It was a Genuine Green U S Dollar Bill - spendable anywhere! That's the way that fishing prizes should be!

Up the Roof!

We didn't get around to viewing the operation, but the boys in the VFW, who are now building a new hall over what was for many years known as the 'dug-out' put their new roof rafters in position last Saturday afternoon - and quite an operation it was.

Charles Williams of Lowell St. who owns the Williams Sign Co., loaned the use of his long-boom truck, which is said to be unique, at least in New England.

It has four or five booms, one within the other, and all being capable of being extended, with hydraulic controls, so that he is able (Page eleven)

Opening the Woburn St School

For many of the children of the new Woburn Street School, their schooling began the evening before the school opened.

Tuesday evening parents could be seen on Woburn Street, walking down from Hathaway Acres, or up from Concord Street, teaching the children the road. On North Street parents from Shady Lane Drive and elsewhere were just as busy, with children in hand.

Yesterday morning, for a time, all was pandemonium. Hundreds of children and parents, on Woburn Street stepped aside as cars raced by at 45 miles an hour or more, their drivers intent on getting to work.

The driveway of the new school was crowded, too, with cars that parents drove, and parked as they brought their children into the building.

Parents and children were in the corridors.

Suddenly, a few minutes before nine, all was silent. The children were in their places, and the teachers had taken charge. A few of the youngsters had tears, as their mothers left the room and them.

Classes began at nine am. Outside workmen graded lawns and laid paving, and in the auditorium painters and heating men were at work.

The new Woburn Street School had started.

They went to visit Grandmother

BACK HOME WITH MOTHER: Michael, Thomas and Timothy Moran, with their mother, after their trip trying to find Grandmothers home.

Three young men of Doane Street who decided, last week to visit grandmother had the police of four departments, K9 dogs, and friends and neighbors looking for them for hours.

And they returned home blithe and happy. They hadn't seen grandmother, but they had gone for a wade in someone's swimming pool.

It turned out that the pool in which they had gone wading was 10 miles away, in Stoneham.

Michael Moran, 9, with his little brothers Tim and Tommy decided that a visit to grandmother, Mrs Birdie Mitchell, would be very nice.

Hand in hand they started off, down King Street, Glen Road, to Concoed Street, and then onto Rte 93.

That was the route that daddy always took when he went to visit grandmother. Grandmother lives in Somerville.

For miles the boys walked along the busy interstate highway, hand in hand. They kept to the grassy plots, and were not noticed by the drivers of the speeding cars. Nor were they noticed by any state police.

When they came to a bridge they rested, under the nice shade. Then they resumed their journey.

Finally, 10 miles from home, the boys noticed a nice swimming pool and decided that a swim might refresh them. Over the fence they went, and into the pool.

It was fun, but they the afternoon began to wane, and the boys decided that perhaps they should go back.

Over the fence they went, and again hand in hand they wandered back the road down which they had come.

Meanwhile of course, their absence had long been noted at the Moran home. Their mother, not finding the boys, had called the Wilmington police.

Sgt Imblinbo of the Wilmington police showed up at about 4 pm. It was the first of three trips that the Sergeant would make to the Moran home that afternoon.

Practically everywhere in Wilmington was searched - Wilmington Plaza, the Square, Silver Lake. All the neighbors were helping, and Walter Moran called a friend in the Metropolitan District Police who sent out a couple of dogs from the K9 Corps.

Within the hour the dogs were out, in charge of MDC officers Dobson and Al Roselle.

Meanwhile Mrs Catherine Calnan, of Brattle Street, nearby, had a visitor.

Mrs Calnan, who had been helping in the search, told of the three missing boys.

What a Co-Incidence, the visitor said, in effect. I saw three boys like that down in Stoneham, walking along Route 93 - and only a few minutes ago!

It took only seconds to alert the Wilmington police, and they in turn called Stoneham, the State Police, and the MDC police.

Everyone went rushing down Rte 93.

And there were the boys - just wandering along, enjoying the air. They knew they would get home sometime.

METHODIST CHURCH TO OBSERVE RALLY SUNDAY

The Wilmington Methodist Church will observe 'Rally Day' this Sunday to signal the beginning of the fall program of worship and church school.

Highlighting the day will be a new worship schedule and a revised curriculum in the church school.

Again this season the church will offer two morning worship services. The first service beginning at 9:30, with the Wesley Choir presenting the anthem, will be followed by a second service at 10:55. The special music for this service will be offered by the Chancel Choir.

Rev. Terry Clay Thomason, pastor of the church, will preach at both services on the subject, 'Where Do We Go From Here?' Rev. Willard C. Arnold and Rev. W. Claude Fillingim, assistant ministers, will assist in leading the services of worship.

Nursery care for infants will be provided at both services.

Church school classes will be held simultaneously with both worship services. For several months one hundred teachers and workers have been making special preparation for the new curriculum which will be initiated this Sunday in both church school sessions.

New Classes Being Offered

A program of Christian Education for every age group will be offered this year, according to the pastor. Under the direction of Mrs. Charles Pembroke, Church School Superintendent, two new classes will be offered for the first time. One is a new Young Adult Class for high school graduates through age 23, the other, a new Adult Discussion Class.

The enlarged program of Christian Education has been made possible by the recent purchase of the Clark property across the street from the present facilities. The church school staff expect to begin using the new facilities within the next few days.

BAPTIST CHURCH PLANS BILLY GRAHAM PRE - RALLY

Next Monday, at 7:30 pm a Billy Graham pre-crusade rally is being planned at the Baptist Church, 173 Church Street, to which the public is cordially invited.

The speaker will be the Rev. Howard Jones, Associate Evangelist to Billy Graham, and a prominent Negro Evangelist.

Mr. Jones has recently returned from Africa, where he is in charge of 'Operation Africa' a ministry of evangelism sponsored by the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association. For the past nine years he has been doing religious broadcasting to the continent of Africa and to other parts of the world.

Mr. Jones was born and raised in Cleveland, Ohio. After receiving his education in that city and at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music he successfully launched his career as a jazz musician. However, following a deep Christian experience he felt called to the ministry. After attending the Nyack Missionary College, he was pastor to churches in both New York City and Cleveland, Ohio. In 1958 he joined the Billy Graham team.

REV. HOWARD JONES, associate Evangelist to Billy Graham, who will speak at the Baptist Church Monday night.

DON'T SHOOT THE PIANO PLAYER

An interesting sidelight to all the discussions going on is that every now and then one meets a person who believes the Town Manager should be fired.

The Town Crier cannot agree.

The present Town Manager is, as this paper said a year ago, in his 'first command'.

He will make errors, but he is trying. At least he is not to be classified as a 'King Log'.

STOLEN CAR SENDS TWO TO HOSPITAL

Mrs Hildred Irwin, 3 Harris Street, is 'doing fair' at the Winchester Hospital, to which she was sent last Friday, after an accident at the corner of Lowell and Woburn Streets.

Her daughter-in-law, Mrs William K Irwin (Betty Jane) of Glendale Circle was released from the same hospital, after X rays had shown that there were no serious injuries.

Both of the ladies were taken to the hospital in the Wilmington Fire Department ambulance.

Three Lowell youths are held in heavy ball, as a result of the accident, and a fourth is being sought by the police.

James F Melanazzo of 844 Central Street, John A Fuatado of 152 South Street, and Joseph F. Milanazzo of 176 Crosby Street Lowell are being held in $2500 ball apiece.

Wilmington police say that the youths stole a brand new car in Derry, New Hampshire, two weeks ago, a 1964 Rambler convertible.

The youths were seen in Woburn by the police of that city and chase was given by a Woburn cruiser, according to a telephone call received at 2:30 pm Friday. Sgt. Rell of the Woburn Police made the call to Wilmington.

The car drove up past St. Anthony's Church, turned right onto School Street and Merrimac Street and drove into Wilmington on Woburn Street.

KEVIN WHITE ARRIVES TODAY

Secretary of State Kevin White is touring 14 Massachusetts communities today, by helicopter, to observe voting procedures.

He is scheduled to land on the parking lot, beside the High School at about 10:30 this morning.

Arriving at the corner of Woburn Street and Lowell Street with the Woburn cruiser in hot pursuit, the car went through the red light, and smashed into the Irwin car which was headed in a southerly direction, the police say.

Sgt Arthur Kelley was in charge of the investigation, and will appear in Woburn Court to prosecute the men on September 21st.

The most valuable farm in New England?

As the result of the recent decision of the Town Hall that all land zoned industrially should be taxed according to its highest potential use, a farm in Wilmington has suddenly become probably the most valuable farm in New England. No longer can the gentlemen farmers of Prides Crossing, or of Lincoln look upon their estates and reflect with pride that their 'farm' is perhaps the most valuable in the area.

A 100 acre plot in North Wilmington, partly bare rock and ridge and partly fertile fields now takes that honor.

This is the story of that farm, at least in part.

It dates back to the Land of Nod, which was a 3000 acre piece of land which was given to the Town of Charlestown during the Colonial Days of Massachusetts. A Selectman of Wilmington, a few years ago, speaking in his official capacity, said that the Land of Nod was a 'King's Grant'. He was trying to put a little romance into his tale, but the Land of Nod was established shortly after Charles the First of England had had his head cut off by the Puritans, and couldn't possibly be construed as having had any type of Royal Assent.

One of the earliest houses to be built in what is now Wilmington was built in what was then the Land of Nod - the Tweed Manning house, so called, now in a sad state of repair. It dates back possibly to 1685, and most certainly to about 1700.

Its name implies that a family named Tweed lived there in early years. The Manning part of the name comes from Deacon Levi Manning, who lived there during the Civil War.

The Tweed Manning house is not a part of the Evans farm, but lies next to it, and probably was the farmhouse-home of the first man to cultivate the area.

The land which has now become probably the most valuable farm in New England lies just to the north of the Tweed-Manning House, and also to the west of that house.

About 100 years ago the Evans farm was owned by a man named Edward Meares, who was a substantial citizen of the town. Most of the buildings on the farm date from his ownership.

The life of Mr Meares was marked with tragedies.

Mr Meares bought the farm during the Civil War. Shortly after the war was over two of his sons died, and his wife died in 1868. The remaining son died in 1871 and, while Meares hung onto the farm for another dozen years he lost spirit, and moved out of town.

The hey-day of the farm came shortly before World War I, when it was bought by two brothers, named Friend.

They were the brothers who established the Friends Bakery in Boston, and they bought the farm because they were going into the business of putting baked beans into cans.

Friends Beans (everyone has heard of them) for many years used pork grown on this farm in Bob has 'egg routes' in the Boston suburbs, where he sells the products of his farm direct to the families of such cities as Medford and Malden.

Egg farming isn't always the best business to be in, and a man has to keep on his toes to make a day's pay. It is a business that

THE OLDEST HOUSE IN NORTH WILMINGTON: The Tweed - Manning House, dates perhaps to 1685, and if this is so it is the third oldest in Wilmington.

North Wilmington. The left over breads and pastries would be fed to the pigs, and the net result was stale bread became fresh pork.

The farm provided a lot of employment for the Wilmington boys of World War I days. Any boy could get a job 'slopping' pigs!

Pig houses were built all over the place, and a huge silo was constructed in the corn field, where the finest soil existed. That silo is the only real marker existing today of the old Friends Pig Farm.

At the conclusion of World War I the two brothers decided that it might be smart to move their bakery right out onto the farm.

They went down to the Selectmen and asked that the farm be rezoned to 'Industrial' and this was done by the obliging townspeople, in town meeting.

But the bakery plans never matured, and by 1930 Friends Farm will keep a man occupied from dawn to dusk.

In spite of this Bob Evans has had time for other activities, many of which come under the heading of 'Citizenship'. He has been in several organizations of the town serving in various capacities, and he has served on the Wilmington Planning Board for the past 10 years or so, among other things.

He was serving on the Planning Board in 1955, while the studies were being conducted by Professor Goodwin of Harvard that led to the 'model' rezoning of Wilmington in November of 1955.

Bob Evans did not seek to have his farm rezoned to industrial. Much of it had been industrial, and the rezoning that took effect was recommended by Bill Goodwin and voted by the town.

He has sold a little land since then - mostly to the Charles River

THE CORN SILO DATES FROM THE FRIENDS FARM DAYS. It stands in the field between Ballardvale Road and the B&M RR, which Evans had cleared of rocks a few years ago under a Middlesex County 4-H project.

In the far distance are the Route 93 bridges over the B&M RR. Evans gave about five acres of this field to the town recently, without asking for damages, when the town rebuilt Ballardvale Street under a Chapter 90 reconstruction project.

was like the Meares Farm of 50 years before - a place that no one really wanted to own and work.

It was then that the present owner and his father came along.

Bob Evans, a youth of about 20 was a student in the Massachusetts Agricultural School in Amherst, now the University of Massachusetts. He and his father bought the farm, and after Bob graduated he established what he called the 'Pine Ridge Poultry Farm'.

He has run it ever since, with sometimes many thousands offowl on his farm, and sometimes only a few thousands.

Breeding Laboratories, but also to other people, but Evans didn't seek to have his farm become industrial land, just so he could sell it.

Now, in 1964, he has learned that his land, in the eyes of the people in the Town Hall, has suddenly become extremely valuable.

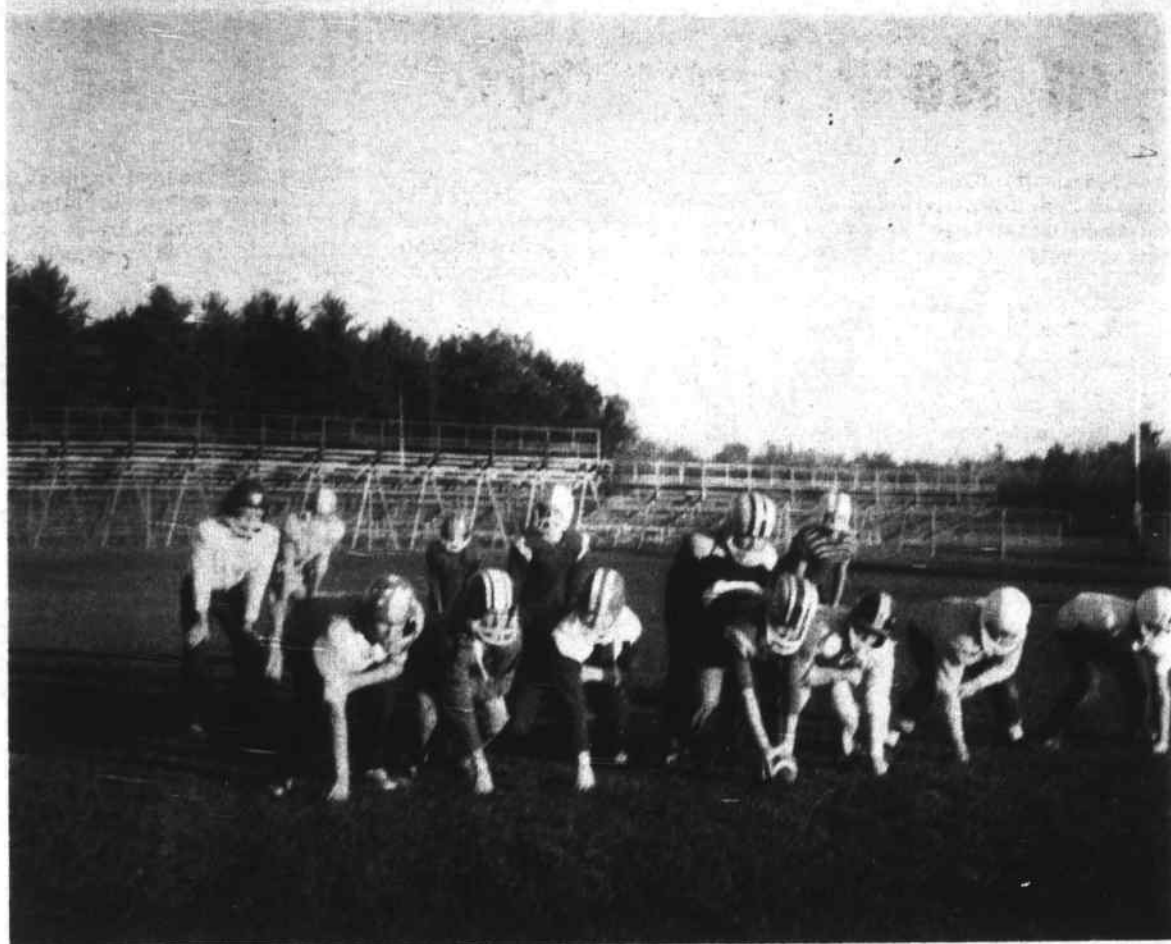

Last year the land was assessed at about $15000.

This year it is to be assessed at a figure which is in excess of one third of a million dollars.

It is going to cost Bob Evans over $225 a week, just to pay the tax bill on his farm.

What happened to the boys of the Wilmington Little League Minor League All Stars, last week, in their annual game against the Mothers shouldn't happen to a dog, or nine dogs.

The Umpire was blind as a bat, and biased to boot. Eddie Corcoran of Woburn Street just sat down on the job, at times. He found the work too strenuous!

Not only that, but Corcoran demonstrated that he didn't have the slightest idea on how to count - even if he does have all his fingers. He counted Strike Two, many times, at the first time the ball passed over the plate, and a Little Leaguer was at bat.

But when a lady was up??? Corcoran would let the ball go over the plate four or five times without saying a word.

They were, he explained to the boys 'practice balls' and as such the ladies were entitled to a chance to strike at them or not, as they chose.

When the ladies fielded two or more shortstops - why that was perfectly permissible. It's done in every ball game!

But Corcoran dug out the rule book, when it came to a question of what the boys were doing that was or was not proper.

But they won, the boys that is, proving that something or other will triumph every time.

In the game between the Dads and the Major League All Stars things were different, except, that is for Mr. Corcoran, that is.

Corcoran was playing Center Field, and he had the Biggest Hole right in the middle of his glove! He just couldn't catch anything.

Eddie Corcoran seemed to be the only dad who didn't want to win. Maybe he wanted to but just couldn't. Anyway the other dads played fiercely in competition with their sons.

And, when the dust had cleared, it was the Little League All Stars 7, and the Dads 5.

persons, has increased its scope of business from 5 to 10% every year since it started, and has never had an occasion in which it had to lay off any of the employees.

It hopes to double in size in the next five years.

Mr Potash said that he expected that most of the present employees of the company would be moving with the plant to Wilmington.

His firm had been looking for a suitable site for some time, he said, and had decided on Wilmington on the recommendation of its real estate agents, and of the firms of Raffi & Swanson, Avco and National Polychemicals.

Potash found the town to be very 'co-operative' - helpful in every way desired towards giving information.

They were particularly attracted by the possibilities of a steady tax rate, and after a study of the ratio of industry and homes in Wilmington decided to locate here.

PCI manufactures acrylics, vinyl acetates and styrene, as a specialty in the chemical field. It has grown from a small nucleus of polymer specialists into an organization with markets all over the world, and has recently constructed a new plant in the Netherlands to take care of the increasing demand for its product in West Europe.

The company recently pioneered an entirely new concept in floor polishes, polishes which are highly resistant to water and alkaline detergents, yet that are easily removed by such simple household chemicals as vinegar.

It is a recognized leader in the field of floor polishes.

It manufactures a NeoCryl polymer emulsion for the finishing of leather which meets the modern tannery challenges, and which imparts a flexibility to the finish and improve adhesion, binding capacity gloss and leveling of the finish. The product is resistant to cracking at low temperatures, and has a broad compatibility with natural and synthetic waxes.

Another of the products of the company is a type of laundry starch for both bottle and aerosol packaging.

POLICE SAY CAR THEFT RING IS SMASHED

Car thieves who have stolen four cars at least, in Wilmington, in the past three months have been apprehended, according to Chief of Police Paul J Lynch, who credited Sgt. Arthur Kelley, and Patrolman Larry Kelly with the work leading to the arrest of three men.

The cars were all stolen from the Wilmington Ford auto body shop according to Sgt. Kelley, and the thefts total four, since last May. Three of the cars have been recovered, and the fourth was destroyed.

Four youths, all over 17, and 1 juvenile were involved. Three of the four youths who are alleged to have been involved have been arrested, and are out on bail. A warrant has been issued for the fourth youth.

Identified by the Wilmington police as having allegedly been a part of the gang of car thieves were: John Gallant, 15 Vine Street, Andover, Angelo Tasca, 131 South Union Street, Lawrence, Robert D Shaw of 88 North Main Street, Andover and Richard Zielski of Lowell Junction Road, in Ballardvale.

to lift signs up to a height of 100 feet.

The boom, we are told, picked up the assembled roof rafters, one by one, and swung them into position as though they were just so many toothpicks.

Naturally no one was happier than the boys in the Nee Ellsworth post!

Stop Sign

One of the things that has been worrying the neighbors of Concord and Woburn Streets these past several years is accidents.

Cars seem to get into collision at the point where the two streets meet.

In the past couple of weeks while town employees were painting their customary 'School - Slow' signs near the schools of Wilmington, on the highways, they also painted a sign on Concord Street, telling the motorists to come to a full stop before crossing Woburn Street.

Now, - to see if the sign was worth the bothers - we'll have to assign someone to counting the accidents.

Wrong Governor?

Sunday night, about 11:30 pm while the Wilmington Jaycees were giving away their free coffee on Route 93 a car came up bearing no less a personage than Elliot Richardson, the former US Asst Attorney, and now the Republican candidate for the office of Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts.

He was southbound from Lawrence, and as he slipped his free Java he told the assembled Jaycees that John Volpe, former Governor of Massachusetts would probably be along in a few minutes.

So - a few minutes later four big, and we mean big, cars swept in. Photographers jumped out, and the Jaycees looked over to see if it was John Volpe.

It was Endicott Peabody! The photographers took about a million pictures while Governor Peabody sipped his coffee, and then everyone was gone again - in just about jig time.

Gas Consumption

We are not certain as to some of the figures in this item, but it is interesting just the same.

The generator which the Jaycees used to supply electricity at their 'coffee watch' belongs to the Civil Defense department of Wilmington.

It is a former US Army generator and was acquired from War Surplus, for, we believe, $1.

We are guessing when we say that it has a rated capacity of two kilowatts. In nine hours of operation, Monday evening it consumed seven gallons of gasoline.

Any way you figure it...

Two miles nearer to New Hampshire the Jaycees had a smaller generator, rated, we guess, at 500 watts. It was borrowed from one of the town departments, and used to provide the electricity for the sign 'Free Coffee, Two Miles' which the Jaycees had, to tell the motorists what to expect.

The Jaycees have a program of inspecting that smaller generator every two hours - principally because there seem always to be motorists with evil in their hearts. They try to steal the generator, and every time the Jaycees inspected it they could see that some unknown individual had been tampering with the chain which bolted the generator to a firm iron post.

The point is that the smaller generator burned the most gas! Yessir. Seven gallons for nine hours on the 2000 watt generator, and nine gallons for nine hours on the 500 watt generator.

of the bride, served as bridesmaids and Miss Frances Enos, sister of the bride, was the flower girl.

Mrs Spinelli and Miss Frances Enos were gowned in pomengrate colored peau de lune of floor length, and had crowns and bouquets of pink fugli mums.

The bridesmaids were similarly gowned, but in peacock blue, and with red flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, who was also the soloist. He sang Ave Maria, Mother at Thy Feet is Kneeling, Panis Angelicus, and I need Thee, Precious Jesus.

The Reverend Father Joseph Leahy, PP, joined the couple in marriage.

After the ceremony a reception was held at St Anthony's Hall in North Woburn, with music by the Sonny Stephens orchestra.

The guest book was in charge of Miss Paula Gouvea of Worcester, a cousin of the bride.

For her gown in the reception line Mrs Enos chose a pink peau de sole dress, with a white feather hat, and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs Conwell wore a royal blue dress, with a green hat, and an orchid corsage.

The couple left after the reception, for a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains, in Pennsylvania.

The bride, for her going away costume, was in a royal blue suit with a royal blue hat, and black accessories.

The couple will live in Malden after their return on Sept. 13th.

The new Mrs Conwell met her husband while serving in a medical detachment of the Women's Army Corps, where she was serving as a Neuropsychiatrist Nurse. She is a graduate of Wilmington High School, and is now employed at the Malden Savings Bank.

Mr Conwell is a graduate of the parochial schools of New York City and served in the US Army Medical Corps. He is associated with Putnam Management, of Milk Street, Boston.
